1975

Though many of our illustrious students will disagree, life at Venango Campus is seldom boring. Our relatively small size allows us freedom and experiences found at very few other institutions of higher learning. Many campus activities were arranged by the Student Senate. Among them were: all-night bowling parties, ice skating, roller skating, swimming at a local YMCA, a picnic at Two-Mile Run State Park, and an unforgettable semi-formal in April. Activities such as these, as well as unorganized group outings, bound the members of the campus community in a unique social atmosphere. Those of us who have shared this experience certainly will never forget memories of Venango, and it is hoped that this book will keep those memories alive.

Venango — A Year

All of us together we've experienced a year.
A time in our lives, we'll hold very dear.
Now, we must all go our own separate way.
To meet others like us, wherever we stay.
We've shared with each other the joy and the pain.
Of life at Venango, a whole year again.
We'll never all be here again as before.
Life's just too short we've gone through these doors.
Memories of each other will slowly grow dim.
Remembering a loved one — her or him.
The happiest moments we've spent in the sun.
Have been at Venango, and I've just begun.
We'll all meet in Heaven, I hope and someday.
We'll hash over old times — the fun and the play.
At Venango, the times, the memories will always stay.

— Gregory S. Brown

Venango expands with a new building

Semi-formal at Cross Creek

Perchance he for whom this bell tolls, may be so ill, that he knows not it tolls for him; And perchance I may Think myself so much better than I am, as that they who are about me, and see my state, may have caused it to toll for me, and I know not that. The Church is Catholic, universal, so are all her Actions; All that she does, belongs to all. When she baptizes a child, that action concerns me; for that child is thereby connected to that Head which is my Head too, and engrafted into that body, Whereof I am a new member. And when she buries a Man, That action concerns me: All mankind is of one Author, and is one volume; when one Man dies, one Chapter is not torn out of the book, but translated into a better language; and every chapter must be so translated; God employs several translators; some pieces are translated by age, some by sickness, some by war, some by justice; but God's hand is in every translation; and his hand shall bind up all our scattered leaves again, for that Library where every book shall lie open to one another: As therefore the Bell that rings to a Sermon, calls not upon the Preacher only, but upon the Congregation to come; so this Bell calls us all: but how much more me, who am brought so near the door by his sickness. There was a contention as far as a suit (in which both piety and dignity, religion, and estimation, were mingled) which of the religious Orders should ring to prayers first in the Morning; and it was determined, that they should ring first that rose earliest. If we understand aright the dignity of the Bell that tolls for our evening prayer, we would be glad to make it ours, by rising early, in that application, that it might be ours, as well as his, whose indeed it is. The Bell doth toll for him that thinks it doth; and though it intermit again, yet from that minute, that that occasion wrought upon him, he is united to God. Who casts not up his Eye to the Sun when it rises? but who takes off his Eye from a Comet when that breaks out? Who bends not his ear to nay bell, which upon any occasion rings? but who can remove it from that bell, which is passing a piece of himself out of this world? No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main; if a Clod be washed away by the Sea, Europe is the less, as well as if a Promontory were, as well as if a Manor of thy friends or of thine own were, any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankind; And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee.
